

Australia PR Visa FAQ

How to get Australia permanent residency?

There are various point based visas under which one can go forward for the skilled independent and nominated subclasses; some are permanent and temporary too. The other visas are for business visa, working holiday visas and the student visas, which give a magnificent opportunity to the candidate to complete the education and settle down in Australia as immigrants and play a vital role in the emerging economy of the country. Australian Permanent Residence is the status given to an individual, under which you are allowed to stay and work for endless time duration.

How to renew Australia permanent residency visa?

For renewing the Australia permanent residency visa one has to get the RRV, the Resident Return Visa (RRV) it simplifies the re-entry into Australia of permanent residents.

How to apply for permanent residency in Australia from 457 visas?

The Australia Visa 457 is the most supported programs among Australian employers who are looking for the distant potential talent, and for those individuals who are moving up to work temporarily in Australia. To apply for this visa you should be:-

- Get the nomination for working in an approved employment on the Skilled Occupation Lists,
- One has to Fulfill the listings of talent for their nominated occupation,
- Have to find a solution regarding the registration and license process,
- Should be able to speak vocational English.

How long does it take to get a permanent residence visa for Australia?

It takes approx seven- eight months for the intact procedure of getting the permanent residence visa. The time may vary from country to country.

How to change from 457 visas to permanent residence Australia?

You can easily go for the Australia permanent residence with the 457 visa. If you have worked in Australia for two years, you are firmly eligible to apply for the permanent residence through the Employer Nomination Scheme (ENS). You can also apply through the Regional Skilled Migration Scheme (RSMS); and with the Skilled Migration one can go for the permanent residence Australia from the 457 visa.

How to extend permanent residency Australia?

To extend the Australia permanent residency you can also file a resident return visa, have the evidence of current or former permanent residence visa.

How much permanent residency cost in Australia?

The permanent residence visa for Australia cost varies but in general it costs 500 AUS $ to 1000 AUS $ for skill assessment. The skill assessment bodies vary according to the different credential assessment bodies. The Landing charges are 3520 AUS $ for a Single applicant and 1760 AUS $ for the spouse and 880 AUS $ for per child if any.

How to apply for permanent residency in Australia for student?

The most common method used by the students to apply for the Australia permanent residency is through the General Skilled Migration after completing their studies.

How to get permanent residency in Australia after study?

To get permanent residency in Australia after study has numerous options, The 487 visa provides a pathway for the students after their studies to work for 3 years as a permanent residence.

The 887 visa awards the student's Australia permanent residency, with this you can live and work after studies in Australia permanently; you must have already lived in Australia for two years.

What does permanent residency mean in Australia?

Permanent residence means you have a visa that permits you to live in Australia indefinitely. Australian Permanent Resident (PR) is an epithet to an intruder who is a bearer of a Permanent Visa. There are various visas that entail permanent residence for citizenship purposes.

What to do after getting permanent residency in Australia?

After getting permanent residency in Australia you can live, work and study without any constraint limitations like a citizen of Australia is living since birth. A permanent resident has rights over most of the entitlements of a native citizen of Australia enjoys.

What are the benefits of Australian permanent residency?

The benefits of Australian permanent residents:

- Travel Opportunities: to travel from Australia to any part of the world. The PR holders of Australia are granted the permission to travel to New Zealand and also work over there.
- The Freedom of Education: It has world class Universities; the education in Australia offers best opportunities to avail immediate employment and career.
- Liberty of working in any desired field, the environment is friendly and motivating.
- Child benefits and Medicare insurance are the highlights of the benefit provided to the Permanent Residents of Australia.
- The child born to the parents in Australia are deemed citizens of Australia since birth.

What is the difference between permanent residency and citizenship in Australia?

The permanent residents in Australia & the citizenship have a mighty difference between both:

A citizen has an automatic right to enter in to Australia, and if a permanent resident travels out of Australia, they need to ensure about the permanent visa with a valid travel authority if they wish to return to Australia as a permanent resident.

A citizen can vote in Australian Government elections and in most cases permanent residents cannot, however if a permanent resident was enrolled to vote (as a British subject) prior to 1984, they may remain eligible to vote.

What documents do I need for Australian permanent residency?

The document for Australian permanent residency includes the reports of Vetassess skill assessment, qualification certificates, documents from the relevant registration and licensing if required.

The Documents to show your level of English language proficiency are asked to submit. In the personal documents you need to submit the copies of biographical pages of present passports, travel documents of the main applicant and dependent applicants. The documents regarding health and character certificates are also considered at the time of filling the Australian permanent residency.

What is the age limit for permanent residency in Australia?

To apply for the permanent residence in Australia one should be not more than 45 years of age.

What are the requirements for being granted permanent residency in Australia?

The requirements for permanent residency in Australia are calculated according to these basic fundamental factors:

- Age,
- Qualification,
- English Language Proficiency,
- Experience of Work,
- Adaptability.

Who can sponsor for permanent residency in Australia?

Anyone can sponsor for the permanent residence in Australia. They can be friends, relatives, and spouse.

How to apply for permanent residency in Australia for citizens of New Zealand?

On arrival in Australia, the New Zealand citizens are automatically granted a special Category visa (SCV). It's a temporary visa, but it permits the holders to remain and work in Australia. And if you were present in Australia after February 2001 as the holder of an SCV you are eligible to apply for the Australian citizenship.

Contact us

India Office

Visas Avenue Pvt. Ltd.

406, Sai Plaza, East of Kailash

New Delhi – 110065

Tel – 011-48447777

www.visasavenue.com

Australia (Contact Center)

Visas Avenue Pvt. Ltd.

Suite 3, Level 8, 179 Queen Street

Melbourne, Victoria, Australia 30000

Tel – 61-390345183

www.visasavenue.com